Right to Fix Rates Owner's Only Asset

A. C. Bird of Gould Lines Likens Rate Reduction to Capital Punishment.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A. C. Bird, vice-president of the Gould lines, in a statement before the Senate Interstate Commerce commission today said:

"In dealing with the question as to the reasonableness of the rates on a given commodity there can be but one intelligent line of procedure, viz: To ascertain if a carrier's rates are subject to its rates is earning more than a reasonable profit per ton, and when that is attained, if it is subject to its rates, it is subject to complaint is rated unreasonably high in proportion to the rate on other articles, value and risk duly considered."

Reasonableness of Cattle Rates.

Mr. Bird presented a statement giving rates on carcasses of various kinds of merchandise between certain Southwest points to illustrate what he said is the relative reasonableness of cattle rates in that territory. This showed that cattle rates are 13 per cent of the value of the property carried, while the rates on lumber, hay, band of iron, cotton, oil, fruit, cotton, oil and corn range from 2.50 per cent to 40 per cent of the value of the property carried.

Pays Less Than Its Share.

"The rate on live stock," said Mr. Bird, shows conclusively that while live stock requires more care and costs more for transportation than any of the other articles, it is paying less than its share of the share of the cost of transportation, provided the rates of other articles which are unchanged are anywhere nearly reasonable.

"It is not plain and it has never been suggested that the Southwest roads are to be closed to live stock. The return upon their investment. Consequently, the aggregate of their revenue derived from that traffic is not unreasonable, and the figures show that live stock is certainly not paying more than its share of the transportation charges to Southwestern roads."

Same as Capital Punishment.

"The reduction of rates to the carrier is the same thing as capital punishment to the individual. The only right or privilege which attaches to railroad ownership is the right to fix and collect rates for services rendered. That right and that privilege is its sole property and railroad owners should not be deprived of that right without due process of law."
